CUT THE BOAT IN TWO.

Tug Run Down by the Big Steamer La Normandle and Six of the Crew Drowned. Paris, Jan. 24 .- A collision causing the loss of several lives occurred yesterday when the steamer La Normandie, of the French-American Line Generale Transatlantique, was leaving Havre for York. The Normandie had safely down the harbor and was between the two jetties, fronting the semaphore, when suddenly the tugboat Abeille attempted to cross in front of the bow of the big steamer. The pilot of the Normandie at once saw the danger, and gave word to slacken speed. This order the engineers at once obeyed, the Abeille was too close for the impetus of the Normandie to slacken in time to prevent a crash. The bow of the Normandie crashed into the Abeille about the middle, cutting the tug-boat clean in two. The collision happened so suddenly that the crew of the Abeille had no time to look for safety. In a moment after the Normandie struck the remains of the Abeille disappeared, and the crew were struggling in the water except those who were crushed and carried down with the wreck. The Normandie stopped as soon as possible and lowered boats for the rescue, other boats also hastening to the scene. The captain of the Abeille and four others of the crew were saved, but six are reported to have been drowned. The Normandie suffered no apparent injury in the collision and proceeded on her voyage, after her com-mander had seen that he could be of no further assistance. It is claimed in behalf of the Normandic that the boat was altogether at fault in endeavoring to cross in front of the steamer, especially in view of the headway which the steamer was un-der. The authorities will hold an investi-gation as to the cause of the collision. Steps are being taken to recover the bodies of the drowned.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS. Influenza Infectious Even in Its First Stage-Advice of a Medical Journal

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. LONDON, Jan. 24.-A prominent medical journal declares that influenza is beyond doubt infectious, even in its first stage. The period of incubation of the disease cerm in influenza is only a third of that of the germ of small-pox, measles or typhus. The writer enjoins the isolation, so far as practicable, of sufferers, and the disinfection of rooms and furniture exposed to the infection. Great stress is laid upon the need of warm woolen clothing, wholsesome and easily assimilated food, avoidance of exposure, abstinence from alcoholic drink and care of the system. 'The docotors' advice is never to attempt to fight the disease, but to give up and go to nursing it

NEW BASE-BALL AGREEMENT.

Terms on Whick Minor Clubs Will Be Admit ted-Transfer and Release of Players.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 24.-John I. Rogers, as chairman of the committee appointed by the National League and American Association of Professional Base-ball Clubs to formulate a new national agreement for the protection of the minor leagues, has drafted an agreement. This new law is based upon the old agreement, but is very materially the base-ball world.

Professional Ball Clubs; the second party being "such eligible professional associations as shall, with the assent of the national board, become signatory parties and admitted to class A." The third party will be such similar professional associations as shall be admitted to class B. Class A is meant to include the larger leagues, like the proposed Eastern and Western leagues. Class B will include all others. Class A associations can contract with other players for one, two or three seasons, with the right of reservation (where their contracts are for one season) and subject to the "selection" of their players by the party of the first part at the price of $750 for the release of each player. They shall pay to the national board $200 per club for a league of eight clubs, or, of six clubs, $250 for each club, or $200 it of four clubs. Class B associations shall have the privilege of signing a player for but one season, with or without the privilege of reserva-tion, as they may elect, and subject to "selection" by clubs or parties of the first part and by clubs of class A, at the rate of $375 for each player so selected, if entitled to reservation, and at the rate of $100 for each player if not entitled to reservation. They shall pay to the board, if reservation be claimed, one-half of the amounts paid by class A clubs, and, if not entitled to reservation, $50 per year for each club. When a player under contract shall be expelled suspended or rendered ineligible, notice of such disqualification must be given to the board, which shall therewith notify all clubs under the agreement.

No game shall be played between any clubs of any association acting under agree-ment when such clubs contain an ineligible player, nor with any club that has played with a team containing an ineligible, under penalty of suspension or expulsion. The same penalty applies to a club contracting for the release or transfer of players and failing to fulfill its agreement. Before any association shall be granted the privileges and protection of this agreement it shall enact laws or regulations debarring any of its clubs from entering into contract with any player while under arrears of salary to him and from suspending or otherwise at-tempting to disquality such player for refusing to contract while it is so in arrears, and scall also provide for the expulsion of any club for refusal to pay arrears of salary to a player when they are required to by said association or by the board. All rights of any association shall be forfeited for fairing to expel any of its club members that may play a game of ball except under the playing rules adopted by the National League and American Association of Prosional Base-ball Clubs.

HARTER'S STATE BANK BILL.

The Chican Thinks His Measure Would Better than Free Coinage. Special to the Indianapoits Journal.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.-Representative Harter, of Ohio, in an interview upon the bill introduced in the House by him to increase the circulating medium and to extend the national banking system, says in explanation of the measure: Briefly, it provides for a repeal of the present peculiar and prohibitory tax upon State note circulation and fixes the same rate of taxation upon notes of the banks issued under State authority as is paid upon national

"All are familiar," he says, "with the reasons for placing the present very extraordinary tax upon State bank circulation. It was not to raise revenue. On the contrary, it was designed to force out of existence under State laws and into the national system all banks which desired to exerown issue in circulation. It was perfectly successful in this, and by bringing the banks into the national system, created an enormous demand for government bonds, and made our banking system from one end of the country to the other the support and right arm of the public credit."

"What will the result be?"

"This change, if it becomes law, will insure a large increase of good money in the main. It must be very good, indeed, to have any general circulation, and unless it is made as good and kept equal to national bank notes it will never enter into general circulation or get much outside of the States in which it is issued. In this latter case it will prove the kind of money (local) which the West and South ask for, and which the unlimited coinage of silver would never secure for them. It will be a kind of money which banks can issue only upon express State authority, and in nine out of ten cases such security will be required, and such restrictions will be placed about it, as to make it promptly redeemable at all times in United States legal-tender money. Every State will recognize the necessity for this, in order to insure even the existence of State banks alongside the

"The results of my bill," he continued,
"will be immeasurably safer than free coinage, for the proposed 421-grain silver dollar is to have a legal-tender value of 100 cents, and the farmer, the working-man, the savings-bank depositor, the pensioner, the washerwoman, the man or woman of fixed income, and, indeed, nine-ty-nine out of every hundred must take it for 100 cents. The bank note must be kept equal to gold or silver or it will not be accepted at its face value or circulate successfully. With the bill referred to a law, the problem of how to perpetuate and expand the national banking system becomes easy and the way clear, for it is no longer hampered by the necessity for providing for State bank circulation, and it can be treated by itself and upon its own merits.
By the passage of the bill it will also do away with the prejudice against the national system."

THE DEAD JURIST.

Justice Bradley's Remains Taken to Newark, N. J., After Brief Funeral Services.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Funeral services over the remains of the late Associate Justice Bradley were held at his residence in this city at 2 o'clock this afternoon. At | The Bandit Killed in Missouri Saturday Was his home, some time before the services began, there was a constant stream of people who passed in and out of the library, where the casket with his remains rested, and took a last look at the features of the distinguished jurist. A number who came could not get in on account of the crowd, but remained in front of the residence until the services were concluded. Among those who attended the funeral were Chief-justice Fuller and the other associates of the dead justice, Mrs. Harrison, accompanied by Private Secretary Halford, Vice-president Morton, all the members of the Cabinet, except Secretary Blaine, Solicitor-general Taft, a number of Senators and Personnel Taft, a num berof Senators and Representatives, a large representation of the local bar and attaches of the Supreme Court.

The services were brief, but impressive, and were conducted by Rev. Dr. Bartlett, of the New York-avenue Presbyterian Church, assisted by Rev. Dr. Hamlin, of the Church of the Covenant. What an Independent Paper Says About the "Opposition" to President Harrison.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.-Few independent newspapers in the country have published more dispatches from Indiana during the past six months concerning the reported opposition to the nomination of President Harrison than has the Post of this city. Few have given the opposition as much credit. either, or attributed to it a more potent power for serious influence against a renomination. This fact makes the following editorial in this morning's Washington Post all the more interesting, it not significant:

"For some time past there has been a persistent attempt on the part of certain newspapers and certain individuals to make it appear that in the State of Indiana the Republicans were bitterly chagrined over the administration of President Harrison. From time to time there have appeared elaborate reports of anti-Harrison meetings, supposed to have been held in various sections of the Hoosier State, and each of these was accompanied with the statement that Indiana would be sure to send an anti-Harrison delegation to the Republican national convention. It was a singular fact that all these reports about the unpopularity of the President in his own State found no place in the colnums of the Indiana newspapers, but, on the contrary, were generally circulated by unfriendly agencies in other parts of the country. Very recent events have tended to explain the weakness of the so-called anti-Harrison movement in Indiana. During the past week the Indiana Republicans have been holding conventions to nominate district committeemen preparatory to the selection of delegates to the Minneapolis convention, and in every instance the administration was indersed. It may be that the opponents of the administration will succeed in making a formidable stand against the President at Minneapolis, but at the present time it seems quite certain that they will be compelled to do so without the aid of the Indiana Republicans. The Hoosier Republicans have notified the

"Why, solid for Benjamin Harrison, beyond any shadow of doubt. No indeed, I do not think there will be any trouble about his renomination. As to his carry-ing the State, it is sufficient answer to say that he has grown largely in the estima-tion of the people since he has been Presi-dent, and the State is in much better condition for a Republican victory now than Democrats at Outs on the Tariff. Washington, Jan. 24.—The disagreement among Democratic members of the ways and means committee as to the methods by which tariff reform shall be accomplished is emphasized by a rumor that three Democratic members of the committee will vote with the Republicans against reporting a free-wool bill. Should such a combination be made the committee would stand eight to seven against reporting the bill. Representative Wilson, of West Virginia, when asked about the matter, said: "The discussions which we have already had in the committee indicate radical differences of opinion as to the policy to be pursued. I hope we may come together. Personally, I have always favored a general fusillade all along the whole line." Mr. Springer, chairman of the committee, when asked about the reported combination, said: "Well, if such action is taken the country will place the blome where it belongs will place the blame where it belongs. Let them go ahead and pocket the bill if they want to. There will be no blame on my shoulders, nor on the shoulders of a majority of the Democrats of the committee.

On the right of the window is a figure representing the church triumphant, and, on the left, the church militant. In the center are groups of figures, while above is a beautiful picture of Christ. At the bottom is the inscription: "To the glory of God and in memory of Henry Jackson Morton, D. D., rector of this church for more than fifty-six years, this window is dedicated by Geo. W. Childs." Mr. Wilson emphatically denies that he has made this retraction, although Judge Furman, attorney for Dr. Graves, says he is confident of a new trial for his client, for he has discovered a point on which to urge a rehearing. He says Judge Rising erred in his instructions to the jury in that he instructed them to return a verliet of guilty if they thought the Doctor had committed the crime, notwithstanding the circumstantial evidence in the case was 8 cret Flight of a Girl Results in the Killing of the Father by His Son-in-Law.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Jan. 24.-Miss Morton, the heroine of a singular elopement, took the cars for Texas to-day at Fort Payne, a town south of here on the Alabams & Great Southern railroad. Her destination was Cooksville, Tex., whither she goes to meet and marry George Bynum, who, after a year's correspondence, sent her money to come to him. As the result of her secret departure from home her father has been murdered by her brother-in law. The old man traced the girl to the cabin of William Sloan, the husband of her sister. The father demanded that his daughter be given up to him. A row followed, which resulted in sloan shooting and killing his father-in-

SHELBYVILLE, Jan. 24.—This city is noted for the number of literary and musical clubs, the oldest and most popular of which is the Woman's Club, of which Mrs. George Hodell is president, Mrs. Issac Carter vicepresident, and Miss Lotta Green secretary. The club is now engaged in the study of English history. The monthly cafe, held at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Willism E. Blakely, Saturday afternoon, was one of the most brilliant and elaborate of the kind ever given in the city, and was attended by the large membership and by about fifty invited guests. The residence was decorated in a rich manner, and the ladies in charge were Mrs. W. E. Blakely, Mrs. Thomas B. Adams, Mrs. Isaac Carter, Mrs. Vernis Williams and Miss Aurilla Jeffers, who received the guests. The regular programme began at 3 o'clock,
